

Itinerary 2 (incomplete)

This is a possible route for an additional day. More destinations can be added. Others can be deleted or the whole thing can be scrapped

Parque Kennedy may be a park next to central park in Miiraflores or another name for Central Park. Trip advisor says it's a good place for ice cream, yum.

There looks like a footpath goes down near the cliffs to the beach. This looks accessible from the park of love

Huaca Pucllana

9:00 AM - 5:00 PM, 7:00 PM - 10:00 PM

Huaca Pucllana or Huaca Juliana^[1] (possibly from Quechua wak'a a local shrine to a protector deity, a sacred place, sacred, pukllana game)^[2] is a great adobe and clay pyramid located in the Miraflores district of central Lima, Peru, built from seven staggered platforms. It served as an important ceremonial and administrative center for the advancement of the Lima Culture, a society which developed in the Peruvian Central Coast between the years of 200 AD and 700 AD.

With the intended purpose of having the elite clergymen (who politically governed several valleys in the area) express their complete religious power and ability to control the use of all the natural water resources (saltwater and freshwater) of the zone, a Great Pyramid was constructed in the Huaca.

As a whole, the structure is surrounded by a plaza, or central square, that borders the outer limits, and by a large structured wall dividing it into two separate sections. In one section there were benches and evidence of deep pits where offerings of fish and other marine life took place in order to attain the favor of the gods. The other section is an administrative area. This area contains various small clay structures and huts made of adobe—with some walls still standing—whose function seemed to be to act as the courtyards and patios of the enclosure which is over 500 meters in length, 100 in width and 22 in height.

Other remains have been uncovered belonging to the Wari Culture (500 – 1000 AD), which was a direct influence on the Lima Culture society towards the ends of its time period. Of particular note are the remains of the “Señor de los Unkus” (The Lord of the Unkus), which belonged to the first tomb within the ceremonial center to have been discovered completely intact. This tomb holds three separate burial shrouds containing the remains of three adults—two of which have masks—and those of a sacrificed child.

University of Piura

The University of Piura (Spanish: Universidad de Piura; "UDEP") is a private university in Peru. It has two campuses, the main one is in Piura, while a more recently built one is located in the Miraflores District of Lima.

In 1964, Josemaría Escrivá, founder of Opus Dei, at a meeting with professors from the University of Navarra in Spain, decided to create a new university. It was founded by St. Josemaría Escrivá de Balaguer and in 1969, it was officially recognized as a university.

Miraflores Central Park

The Parque Central de Miraflores (Miraflores Central Park, aka Kennedy Park, too) is almost the heart of Miraflores' center: everything takes place around or very close to this place. Not only it has an amphitheater where many different shows take place daily, but there's food and desserts stalls and several fast-food places surrounding it; there's souvenirs vendors, street artists, and even a children's playground; this is also a space favored by families during the day and by friends (and couples) for taking a stroll. But this is also the home of some friendly 50 stray cats, who live and wander freely and safely here since the neighbors feed and protect them. There are surveillance cameras hidden at certain spots, and there is free wi-fi available.

Parque Kennedy

Located in the heart of Miraflores, this park displays local art and jewelry and makes a great place for a family dinner or an ice cream treat.

El Parque del Amor

12:00 AM - 11:59 PM

The Love Park is located on the cliffs of Chorrillos overlooking the Pacific Ocean. It's surrounded by walls of romantic quotes scripted in mosaic tiles and a monumental statue of two lovers embracing each other in the center of the park.
